DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by FR 2451093 A.

Claim 1, a hermetically sealed electrical switch assembly [figure 1] with a casing [3] containing an opening, a cover [8] sealing the opening of the casing to form a primary volume, an electrical switch inside the primary volume having contacts [2, 4, 5] to change the state of the circuit, magnetic responsive means [14] arranged inside the primary volume coupled to the switch and magnetic activating means [11] fitted to the upper surface of the cover for effecting the movement of the magnetic responsive means.

Claim 2, the positions of the magnetic responsive means and the magnetic activating means can be replaced by each other.

Claim 3, the electrical switch means having a switching lever [1] which can change its position together with the contacts, the lever is connected with the magnetic responsive means.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over FR 2451093 A.

Claim 4, FR 2451093 A discloses the claimed invention except for the magnetic responsive means being comprised of an inner body with a first magnet device disposed inside. It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to construct the magnetic responsive means from two parts instead of one, since applicant has not disclosed that this arrangement solves any stated problem or is for any particular purpose and it appears that the invention would perform equally well with a single piece magnetic responsive means.

Claim 5, FR 2451093 A discloses the claimed invention except for the magnetic activating means being comprised of an outer body with a second magnet device disposed inside. It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to construct the magnetic activating means from two parts instead of one, since applicant has not disclosed that this arrangement solves any stated problem or is for any particular purpose and it appears that the invention would perform equally well with a single piece magnetic activating means.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 6-17 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
